NAZIS BACK UP AS ALLIED FORCES MERGE

Meandering
Along the Main Stem
By WASH FAYETTE

Here's a story, only possible in wartime, which shows that gloves go round and round in other places than the prize fight ring . . . and how a girl in England will be properly dressed because a Washington C. H. store had the proper gloves for her wedding.

Tuesday afternoon a shopper selected, at one of the Main Stem stores, a pair of white kid gloves in a small size . . . remarked that she had looked many places before finding them . . . and told the sales girl that they were for her son's fiancée . . . he's stationed in England with the armed forces and will marry the young English girl soon, according to the mother, and since white kid gloves are only a memory in the British Isles . . . there's no doubt that this wedding will be different from most . . . thanks to a very thoughtful mother-in-law-to-be.

Incidentally, this pair of gloves will do quite a bit of traveling before reaching the "ultimate consumer" for they were made in France before the war . . . came to America to be sold . . . and will be shipped back to Europe.

Shades of the past:

Steve and Jake Sanders have one of the oldest official documents of its kind I've seen in many a day around here. . . It is the original commission as Justice of the Peace for Union Township (Fayette County) granted their father, John Sanders, nearly three-quarters of a century ago. . . it bore the signature of Edward F. Noyes, governor of Ohio at that time and was dated April 10, 1872 . . . it was registered by Mason Blanchard, the county clerk of court then, and also signed by J. E. Tisor, the deputy clerk.

Washington C. H., by comparison with the modern city, was hardly more than a cross-roads trading center then . . . and it was encompassed by Union Township . . . now it is a separate township surrounded by Union Township . . . imagine what a job the justice of the peace had in those days.

The Sanders brothers also have an old contract granted to some one of those old timers . . . the name had slipped their memories temporarily . . . for carrying the mail from here to Portsmouth on horseback.

I believe just about the only covered wooden bridge that was ever built in the city was the one the tornado tore down 58 years ago, or on the evening of September 8, 1885. It was over Paint Creek on West Court Street.

That old structure had a pronounced hump in it, and for a great many years was a favorite loafing place for men and boys, particularly on rainy days.

When the tornado struck, and wrecked part of the city, it tore the old wood structure apart and hurled it into the stream, so that traffic was forced to detour and come into the city over the Dayton Avenue bridge, or the South Fayette Street bridge.

As soon as possible after the wooden bridge was blown down, it was replaced with an iron structure which was later replaced with one of steel and then the present concrete and steel span.

Among the polysyllabic causes of death listed by the Board of Health—words like arteriosclerosis, carcinoma, thrombosis, embolism, myocardial and occlusion was listed an eloquent phrase, "just worn out".

The person who died because he was "worn out" was between the ages of 70 and 79.

BY PRESIDENT

America's Lawmakers Told of Allied Achievements and Given Hints of Future

RUSSIA HELPED, HE SAYS

Chief Executive Outlines Accomplishment in War Production at Home

By DOUGLAS B. CORNELL

WASHINGTON, Sept. 17.—(AP)—President Roosevelt said today that "specific and precise" plans have been made for great new blows at Germany and Japan, including "definite times and places for other landings on the continent of Europe and elsewhere."

In a war review sent to Congress, the commander-in-chief said Hitler has left "vulnerable spots in the wall of the so-called fortress—which we shall point out to him in due time."

But the blunt fact is, he said, that we are a long way from victory in any major theater of the war, and there can be no let down anywhere.

"We face in the Orient a long and difficult fight," he warned. "We must be prepared for heavy losses in winning that fight. The power of Japan will not collapse until it has been literally pounded into the dust. It would be the utmost folly for us to try to pretend otherwise."

In discussing the European phase of the conflict, Mr. Roosevelt gave a possible hint that the Balkans may be the scene of one new thrust—and that in the immediate future. Reporting "definite information" of unrest and a growing desire for peace in Rumania, Hungary and Bulgaria, as well as Finland in northern Europe, he said:

"We hope that in these nations the spirit of revolt against Nazi dominance which commenced in Italy will burst into flame and become a consuming fire."

Perhaps, significantly, he did not urge the people of those nations to delay any longer the hour of their revolution.

His 6,000-word review fitted all the pieces of current war developments into a single pattern of global strategy and he spoke confidently of victory even as he warned that it is yet still distant.

Nonetheless, he said, the time is here to begin planning and even legislating for the demobilizing of the armed forces to provide their millions of members with greater economic protection and educational opportunities and seeking, too, of the necessity of speaking now to establish "fair international relationships . . . on a permanent basis."

He said it was certain that the campaign in North Africa, Sicily and Italy, plus the engaging of large numbers of German planes in the skies over western Europe, "have given important help to the Russian armies along their advancing front from Leningrad to the Black Sea."

"We know, too," he said, "that we are contributing to that advance by making Germany keep many divisions in the Balkans, in southern France and along the English Channel. I like to think these words constitute an understatement."

He gave a four-point summation of the war in telling Congress that "we are still a long, long way from ultimate victory in any major theater of the war."

First, "despite substantial victories in the Mediterranean, 'we face a hard, and costly fight up to the present time."

Arrests in Detroit Bring Quick Action—Charges Carry Death Penalty

DETROIT, Sept. 17.—(AP)—Four women and four men accused of acting as spies for Nazi Germany were indicted today by a federal grand jury on charges of conspiracy under the Wartime Espionage Act which carries a possible death penalty.

Six of those indicted have been detained since August 24 when two men and two women were arrested on warrants, and two other women were held as dangerous enemy aliens. Two other men were arrested early today.

Sixteen persons including residents of Budapest, Stockholm and Lisbon were named in the indictments returned today as co-conspirators but not as defendants.

U. S. Attorney John C. Lehr said the indictment accused the eight of conspiring to "communicate, deliver and transmit to the German Reich and to its various representatives photographs, blue-prints, sketches, documents and information generally relating to the national defense of the United States with intent to injure this country and to the advantage of the Nazi government."

The defendants, Lehr said, are charged with attempting to collect and communicate information on fortification and defense measures and "information with respect to the movements, numbers, descriptions, condition and disposition of the armed forces as well as to ships, aircraft and war materials of the United States."

The eight indicted are: Miss Grace Buchanan-Dineen, self-styled "countess" named by federal authorities as head of the group; Carl John Wilhelm Leonhardt, Detroit, naturalized citizen described as a founder of a branch of the Nazi party here in 1933; Mrs. Emma Elsie Leonhardt, his wife; Mrs. Theresa Behrens, Detroit; Mrs. Marianne Von Moltke, wife of Heinrich A. Von Moltke, who was deposed as a German instructor at Wayne University after she was detained as a dangerous alien; Dr. Fred William Thomas, Detroit obstetrician; Walter Joseph Abt, Romeo, Mich., research engineer and tool designer in a Detroit war plant, and Bertrand Stuart Hoffman, former merchant seaman arrested August 24 in New York.

Lehr said penalties upon conviction range from 30 years imprisonment to death.

The grand jury which returned the indictments before Federal Judge Edward J. Moineau, started its investigation here September 7, with Miss Buchanan-Dineen the principal witness.

Only 3 British Cruisers Kept Fleet Bottled

LONDON, Sept. 17.—(AP)—A. V. Alexander, first lord of the Admiralty, disclosed last night that late in 1941 the British Mediterranean fleet had only three cruisers left to meet the Italian navy had it dared to seek battle.

Alexander made his disclosure in a broadcast to the nation in which he described the surrender of the Italian fleet—most of which is now in British hands—as one of the great turning points of the war.

Soviet Forces All Set Now For Drive Against Nazis Caught in Crimea

LONDON, Sept. 17.—(AP)—Three Soviet armies, sweeping westward through the southern Ukraine, are closing on Krasnodar, Nazi bastion and rail junction in the Kharkov-Dnieperetrovsk Railway, a Reuters dispatch from Moscow said today.

Other Red army columns, having scored four impressive victories yesterday, were plunging forward on many sectors of the 600-mile battlefield, intent on throwing the Germans back across the Dnieper River barrier before heavy autumn rains render large scale military operations impossible.

A DNB broadcast from Berlin today admitted that the Germans had lost Novorossisk, the Russian Black Sea naval base in the Caucasus.

A German communique, broadcast by Berlin and recorded by The Associated Press, also conceded once more that the Nazis had evacuated Bryansk, important base on the central front. Berlin announced three days ago that Bryansk had been evacuated but denied it in a broadcast yesterday. The Russians have made no claims of the city's capture.

A triumphant Moscow communique, heralded by two special orders of the day signed by Premier Joseph Stalin and a salute of 24 salvos from 124 guns in the Russian capital, recorded gains of four widely separated sectors.

PEACE SENTIMENT
GROWS IN FINLAND

Feelers Put Out by Premier To U. S. and Britain

STOCKHOLM, Sept. 17.—(AP)—Peace sentiment in Finland was given a strong boost today through an announcement by Premier Edwin Linkomies identifying himself as the anonymous spokesman who was quoted as saying Sept. 11 that this country wished to withdraw from the war.

At that time, Linkomies declared Finland regretted being at war with England and desired peace with Russia if she could be assured of her pre-1939 independence and territorial status.

The Finns already have made informal peace overtures through the United States and Britain, but there has been no indications of a direct approach to Russia, which has insisted that Finland take the first step.

Change Expected To Come During Next Month

By The Associated Press

Ohio cities generally will return to Eastern Standard Time within the next three weeks and set their clocks back an hour after following the national administration's plea for summer war time to save electric power, a survey showed today.

However, several city councils still are undecided on whether to drop war time during the winter months.

The autumn time change is expected to create a little confusion such as accompanied last spring's action of the state legislature, which decreed slow standard time officially for the state, only to find almost unanimous city preference for war time.

American Boys—there might even be some from Fayette County among them—are shown in the photo above rushing across the bloody beaches near Salerno into battle with the Germans.

'ONE MAN PEACE'
HIT BY BRICKER

Ohio Governor Stands for National Identity at Philadelphia Meeting

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 17.—(AP)—This country's foreign policy should be based upon the necessity for preservation of our national identity and freedom of action, Gov. John W. Bricker of Ohio declared here today in observance of Constitution Day.

The Ohio executive, in an address prepared for delivery over a national radio hookup and before the National Society of Sons of the American Revolution, also urged caution in the final drafting of peace treaties at the war's end.

"No man is wise enough now to state with exactitude what this nation's obligations to others may be at the conclusion of the war or how they may best be carried out," he said.

"Our foreign policy should be based upon the absolute necessity for the preservation of our identity as a nation and on our traditional freedom of action at all times."

Bricker recommended that this country's peace negotiations be conducted by a bi-partisan delegation representing various departments of government and sectional life.

"Never again," he said, "should our peace negotiations be directed by those from only one political party, from any one department of government or any one section of our national life."

"We do not want a one man or one party peace. If we believe in collaboration among the nations we must put it in practice among Americans."

Father Draft Opposition
Is Reviving in Congress

WASHINGTON, Sept. 17.—(AP)—New and vocal opposition to the early drafting of pre-war fathers arose in the House today while members of the Senate military committee declared, however, that they had not been convinced by the testimony thus far, including that of Undersecretary of War Robert P. Patterson, that the inductions are necessary now.

The House group decided at an executive session yesterday to sit with the Senate committee when Marshall appears.

German Ring Around Clark's Embattled Fifth Army Broken by Allied Move

WARSHIPS LEND SUPPORT

Allied Air Fleets Blast Enemy Positions and Communications

By NOLAND NORGAARD

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, Sept. 17.—(AP)—The Fifth Army of Lt. Gen. Mark W. Clark and the British Eighth Army fused their fronts with establishment of contact between patrols following an amazing northward march of nearly 200 miles from the Italian toe by Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery's veterans, Allied headquarters announced today.

The Eighth Army also made contact with British forces beating up the Italian east coast from Taranto, a communique from Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's headquarters announced. All three of the Allied beachheads on the west, south and east thereby were welded into a single front.

The contact between Gen. Montgomery's speeding warriors and Gen. Clark's American and British troops, who for eight days had fought the greatest engagement of the Mediterranean war in order to maintain their west coast foothold, was made somewhere in or near the southern end of the Salerno bridgehead.

Linking of the two armies broke the enemy's ring of steel around Gen. Clark's Tommies and Doughboys and appeared to have ended the critical period of the battle against four or more German armored divisions on the bloodstained beaches.

(The Reuters correspondent with the Fifth Army said enemy troop movements indicated the Germans were beginning to withdraw from the front facing the southern part of the bridgehead.)

Announcement of the contact was made by Allied headquarters shortly after a communique had told of Montgomery's capture of Vallo Della Lucania, only 16 miles from Agropoli, at the southern end of the 27-mile front held by the Fifth Army.

At the same time Clark's army struck out from its hard-won shoreline and recaptured the mountain village of Albanella, 10 miles inland, smashed three German counterattacks and flattened several German salients that had been driven into Allied positions.

(An Algiers broadcast by NBC said Montecorvino, 8½ miles inland and 11 miles east of Salerno at the northern end of the bridgehead, also was captured in the repulse of one of the German attacks.)

(London dispatches said seizure of Montecorvino would be one of the more significant Allied victories as the town is understood to be the site of one of the best airfields along the whole lower stretch of Italian west coast. With an airfield in Allied hands there the scope and effectiveness of fighter plane protection for Gen. Clark's base of operations would be greatly extended.)

(A British broadcast from Algiers, recorded by CBS, said the Fifth and Eighth Army patrols met about half way between Agropoli and Vallo Della Lucania, or less than 10 miles from the beachhead.)

Gen. Eisenhower's communique said the Germans' efforts to reduce the Allied bridgehead "have weakened considerably," that air and naval support of the land fighters continued to be heavy and effective, and repeated Gen. Clark's declaration of yesterday that the Salerno position

WILSON NAMED AS COMMANDER OF LEGION POST

Plans Made for First of Dances in New Home by New Committee

H. E. Wilson is post commander of the Paul H. Hughey Post 25 of the American Legion here for the second consecutive year, it was announced today by P. B. Tharp, adjutant of the post. Both officers were re-elected at a meeting of the executive committee of the Legion last night. Robert M. Jefferson is first vice-president; Charles E. Morgan, second vice-president, and W. E. Hutton, financial officer, the elections revealed. These men, with Charles Burke, T. H. Craig, Jr., Chester P. Dunn, Howard D. Fogle, Sherman Hidy and Jesse H. Maddux will form the executive committee of the post here. The officers were elected from the group of 11 men who were elected to the executive committee last Tuesday.

Plans were completed for the first Legion dance, scheduled to begin at 9 P. M. tonight in the new Legion Hall. Tharp said. The floor is in condition and arrangements to sell soft drinks and ice cream cones are complete now. The counter where the snacks will be served is set up in a small room adjoining the dance floor. Tharp added and explained that the counter was merely a dispensing counter and not large enough to be used for eating the food bought. After rationing regulations are worked out, it is planned to serve sandwiches as well as ice cream and soft drinks, Tharp said. Chase's orchestra will play for the dance, which will last from 9 till 1 A. M.

through Italy," and a major task of organizing positions before they can be taken advantage of. Second, from bases in Britain, "we must be sure that we have assembled the strength to strike not just in one direction, but in many directions,—by land and sea and in the air—with overwhelming forces and equipment." Third, the Russian armies still have a long way to go to get into Germany itself, despite their magnificent counter offensive. Fourth, the Japanese remain firmly established on an enormous front from the Kuriles Islands in the north to the Solomons in the south and Burma and China in the east, and to break through their defensive ring, "we must hit them and hit them hard, not merely at one point but at many points and we must keep on hitting them."

Shifting his analysis further into the Pacific, the chief executive said the threat to Australia and New Zealand across the Coral Sea had been "practically dissipated" by Allied seizure of air bases in the Solomon Islands. In fact, he said, the Allies now offer a threat of their own against the Japanese in the seas north of the Solomons and New Guinea.

He forecast, too, an offensive in Burma, to end a long period of defensive strategy and he spoke of the time when "we are ready to strike right at the heart of Japan itself."

The chief executive had relatively little to say of post-war plans and policies but he ended his message with one pertinent paragraph.

Referring at one point to the secret negotiations which led to Italian capitulation, the chief executive said there would be Urging that there be no let-down in the war effort at home, Mr. Roosevelt said the Allies now have a definite superiority, on the European front, in almost all weapons.

Admitting worries in June and July over a reduction in the rate of increase in production, Mr. Roosevelt said he was happy to report the increase was resumed in August and that September's record was even better.

Again, however, he gave an admonition, saying nothing could be more costly in lives than to adopt an attitude that the war has been won or nearly won.

He said that would mean a let-down in the great tempo of production and that men fighting the world over would not have

While mistakes have been made in converting peace-time America into a war machine, he said it would be nothing short of a miracle if there had been no errors and that fair-minded citizens would realize a great and successful job had been done.

To support his point, he gave some specific production figures. Since the armament program began in May, 1940, and up to September 1, he said, the U. DRIVER HELD DUE TO CRASH

Garland Wilson Picked Up In Columbus and Brought Back

Garland Wilson, against whom a charge of leaving the scene of an accident was filed by Herman Wood, after Wilson is alleged to have driven J. Boyd Skinner's automobile into Wood's car on the New Holland road near the former Stewart school house, the night of September 4, was arrested in Columbus over Thursday night, and brought here Friday in custody of Sheriff W. H. Icenhower, to face the charges in Justice George Worrell's court.

Wilson was picked up on information given by Sheriff Icenhower, and is said to have been in Columbus since he fled immediately after the accident.

He is alleged to have been driving Skinner's automobile without the owner's consent. Both cars were badly wrecked and Wood, his wife and Mrs. Wood's mother, Mrs. Ida Brown, were injured severely.

of small arms ammunition, and 1,233,000 trucks. In most instances about half these totals were produced, the president said, in the first eight months of this year. For that period he itemized an output of 52,000 planes, 23,000 tanks, 40,600 artillery weapons, 4,638,000 small arms, and 13,339,000,000 of small arms ammunition.

Since May, 1940, he said, the United States has completed 2,380 fighting ships and auxiliaries and 13,000 landing vessels, and completions of navy ships in the last six months equalled a total for all of 1942.

WIFE AND MAN ARE ACCUSED OF RATION THEFT

First Charge of Kind To Be Filed in County Is in Justice Court

Appearing in Justice George H. Worrell's court, Thursday, Millard Gilmore filed an affidavit against his wife, Ethel Gilmore, and Guy Smith, city, charging them with stealing his rationing book.

It is the first charge of its kind filed in Fayette County, and the penalty for such an offense is said to be severe.

The affidavit charges: "On or about August 1, 1943, Mrs. Ethel Gilmore and Guy Smith unlawfully and willfully did take, steal and carry away one war ration book Number 3, the personal property of Millard Gilmore, contrary to section 12447, of the General Code of Ohio."

Gilmore explained to Justice Worrell that by reason of the alleged theft of his rationing book he had been running short of food, and that attempts to have the book replaced at the Rationing Board office were of no avail, so that he decided to file the charge to recover the book.

The Northwest African Air Command also sent medium bombers against enemy transports in the Auletta district Wednesday night while yesterday heavy and medium bombers ranged over highways, railway bridges and other points around Naples and Salerno.

Associated Press correspondent Daniel De Luca, who reached Fifth Army headquarters two days ago after a daring 100-mile trip through no-man's land in advance of the Eighth, reported the Germans had thrown few obstructions in the path of Montgomery's veterans.

Gen. Sir Harold Alexander, Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's deputy commander-in-chief, stepped ashore in the Salerno area Wednesday, possibly to take personal command of the over-all operations in Italy.

There was no information yet as to whether the junction of the Fifth and Eighth armies had compelled the Nazis to withdraw northward from the vicinity of Agropoli, at the southern end of the Fifth Army's foothold.

RED ARMIES SURGE ON AFTER DAY OF VICTORY IN FOUR MAJOR AREAS

1. Capture of the great Black Sea port of Novorossisk, an important naval base and springboard for an assault upon the German held Crimea.
2. Seizure of Novgorod-Severski 90 miles southwest of Bryansk and bastion of the "German Eastern Wall" guarding White Russia.
3. Capture of strategic Lozovaya, cutting the Kharkov-Crimea Railway, northern land artery for German forces in the Crimea, which placed Russian troops only 35 miles from the Dnieper River bend.
4. Storming of Nosovka, southwest of Nezhin, and 55 miles from the great middle Dnieper German base of Kiev.

The speed with which the Soviet columns were eating up German-held positions east of the Dnieper, encouraged the belief they might reach the river within the next few days, launch a drive against the White Russian frontier, 80 miles west of Novgorod-Severski, force a German retreat from the Caucasian bridgehead above captured Novorossisk, and complete the investment of the citadel of Bryansk.

In all, a total of more than 225 towns and villages, many regarded as important strategically, were captured by the Russian armies during the day's advance,

Three Notable Achievements Hung Up by Allied Forces On Two Fronts in 24 Hours

Sgt. Richard Barger Injured On Return from Air Attack

The past twenty-four hours have produced three notable achievements for Allied arms.

First in American hearts must come the good news that the gallant American and British troops on the bloody beaches of Salerno not only have made secure their bridgehead but have seized the initiative and are on the offensive. Our boys have weathered the initial stage of a nasty German storm.

Second, and more important militarily, is the unemotional word from Moscow that the Red army has broken the German line in the vitally strategic sector east of the Kiev-Zaporozhe line of the Dnieper River. That vastly increases the gravity of the Hitlerite position.

Third, we have the Russian recapture of their big Black Sea naval base of Novorossisk which is, so to speak, the hinge of the narrow gateway the Nazis have been holding at the Kuban Peninsula entrance to the Caucasus. This jeopardizes the whole German position at the last remaining vantage ground from which they could glimpse the lakes of golden oil for lack of which they are in dire straits.

This is the ninth day of the battle of Salerno and, while heavy fighting continues, it goes all right. Thousands of reinforcements are being poured into our ranks. While the Germans have the advantage of their fortified positions on the heights overlooking the open beaches, Allied warships control the sea and Allied warplanes dominate the air.

The Nazi defenses are being mercilessly blasted with both bombs and big naval shells. The Allies are employing the greatest concentration of airpower seen in the Mediterranean.

And elements of General Montgomery's veteran British Eighth army have almost reached the Salerno battlefield in the race from the south. The Germans are threatened with being caught between two forces.

By the way, if the reader will excuse an interpolation while we are on the subject of Italy, there are a couple of questions I wish somebody would answer for me.

Is it necessary, in order to sell bonds and keep the American public from "this foolish, childish overoptimism," to make such depressing speeches as our usually smiling friend the secretary of the treasury made Wednesday about the Italian campaign? Does the man-in-the-street really have to be treated as a psychological guinea pig, so that he won't become complacent, or is he in fact a pretty solid and understanding citizen? Why does Mr. Morgenthau have to talk about "When and if we conquer Italy"—why the "if"?

Why is this "the beginning of the war, so far as the United States is concerned," when hearts and backs have been broken for almost two years without a whimper to meet colossal demands? After all, who is there who doesn't realize that we have tremendous sacrifices ahead of us, both on the battle fields and on the home front?

The Nazis liked part of Mr. Morgenthau's speech so much that they used it for propaganda to buck up their own people. It surely can't be good for both Nazis and Yankees—or is it?

But to get back to our muttons, the Germans on the Russian front are faced with two momentous problems: (1) Whether they can pull back their long, unwieldy, badly mauled line to the defenses of the Dnieper River and there reestablish themselves; (2) whether they can overcome the grave danger of being cut off in the Crimea, as the result of the fall of Novorossisk and the steadily increasing threat to their right flank near the northern entrance to the Crimean Peninsula.

The indications now are that the Nazis' hope of standing off further disastrous reverses must lie in the possibility that the autumn rains, which already have

Washington C. H. Youth Hurt When Flying Fortress Makes Crash Landing After His 21st Raid Over Europe But Letter to Parents Says He Is 'O. K.'

Sgt. Richard Barger

Staff Sergeant Richard L. Barger, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Barger, of West Elm Street, is in a hospital in England with his back in a cast as result of injuries sustained in a crash landing made by a Flying Fortress which ran out of gas while en route to the home base, after his 21st raid over occupied Europe on August 11.

First word of his injury came in a telegram from the War Department, received by his parents Wednesday, stating: "Your son, Staff Sergeant Richard L. Barger, was accidentally injured August 11. You will be advised as reports of his condition are received."

About the same time his parents received a letter, written after the accident, stating that he was "O. K." and that he sustained a back injury which made it necessary to place his back in a cast, although he is able to walk about the hospital. He indicated he would be in the hospital for some time.

Sergeant Barger stated in his letter that his injury was sustained in a forced landing of his bomber, due to running out of gas as the plane was bringing him back from his 21st raid over Germany. It was noted in his letter that he had been transferred recently. His present address is 30th General Hospital, APO, 514 New York City.

Sergeant Barger has been in the air service for two years. He enlisted in the Royal Canadian Air Corps and later was transferred to the U. S. Air Corps. He enlisted soon after he was 18 years of age. Sgt. Barger has been England since last fall

POSTWAR INCENTIVE

With the airing of many postwar rehabilitation recommendations, it becomes increasingly evident that there is a certain unanimity of the belief among our various economic camps.

In the confused aftermath of any such mass conflagration there are bound to be differences in judgment concerning the disposition of government-owned properties and materials, the wholesale creation of jobs, payment of the war debt, and other major considerations.

But, it is encouraging to note the consensus of opinion concerning the need not for a "stop-gap" or "made work" program, but a release of the economic forces that will correct the many dislocations of war if allowed to function at maximum efficiency.

At a recent meeting of the executive council of the American Federation of Labor a recommendation was made that the War Production Board "be directed to begin plans now for reconversion, industry by industry and plant by plant so that we can all be set for action the moment the war ends."

In the revitalization of industry for peace, the first step, the council maintained, "is to make advance plans for rapid conversion from a wartime to a peacetime basis."

"The second major step must be the encouragement of capital investment and industrial expansion for peacetime production. The council believes that the government should not only permit, but stimulate opportunities to make a reasonable and fair profit for firms that are willing to increase production and employment. Furthermore, these business firms must be given assurance that they will not be taxed to death."

In the long run, the best incentive for bigger and bigger business under our free enterprise system is a chance to make a profit. No better way can be found to promote confidence and stimulate business activity.

PACIFIC WARFARE

Europe holds the major share of American interest at the moment, but in the Far Pacific American men and American equipment are winning sensational victories over the stubborn Japanese. At Kiska the Japs have demonstrated that they are not so willing to die as formerly and have learned to run.

Staggering blows have been dealt the Japanese air force in the New Guinea sector and the forces of General MacArthur are presenting the possibility of cleaning the Japanese out of the Solomons and New Guinea area within the summer and fall.

If that should happen, the United States will find its forces at the gateway to the Netherlands East Indies, to Borneo and the Philippines. Island by island, the Americans have been smashing away at the Japs, fighting hand to hand and gaining yard by yard.

There has been nothing spectacular in the kind of fighting the American ground forces in the Pacific islands have had to endure. There have been no waves

Hot Cakes Get Soldiers' Vote

CAMP PICKETT, Va.—From a letter the boys at this Army post received from a soldier in Sicily, they found out that it's not Betty Grable or Lana Turner or Dorothy Lamour that the men on the fighting front are thinking about.

The letter made a request for five pounds of baking powder "so that Mess Sergeant Weldon C. Smith can whip up a batch of longed-for hot cakes."

Clothes Lines Keep 'em Flying

BILOXI, Miss.—Uncle Sam's clothes lines keep 'em flying here—over four and a half million pieces of Army clothing in the past three months.

The Keesler Field laundry's report showed recently that 4,601,499 items of clothing were washed during the quarter and that 480 civilians who were employed by the laundry were paid $115,516.22. A service man's laundry costs him 40c a week regardless of the size of his weekly bundle.

of dive bombers, no battering tanks, no charges as at Tunisia's Hill 609. In the Pacific islands it has been crawling on bellies, pausing to shoot snipers out of trees and caves, dragging artillery through tangled jungle, fighting mosquitoes at night, eating field rations for days and days on end.

But through it all, the Americans in the South Pacific have a sense of perspective and the vision of victory. Every mile they gain drives the Japanese a step farther back toward Tokyo. There are still thousands of miles to go, but Kiska is proof that the Nipponese will not fight every inch of the way and American soldiers down in the jungles know that the day will come when they will march down the streets of what is left of Tokyo.

MORE OF THE SAME

The OPA's decision once more to invoke the honor system to prevent pleasure driving in the east suggests that unlike the moron, it never learns.

The eastern public is not going to be soothed by this concession, nor is the gasoline shortage going to be solved. Eastern drivers will use up their rations as they see fit, including pleasure driving. And while they do it they will continue to curse the OPA.

What eastern motorists ask, wisely or not, is simple—that they be given what gasoline can be spared, whether it be three gallons a week or one gallon in three weeks and permitted to use it as they choose, without sacrificing their honor thinking up reasons why trips to visit neighbors or to play golf are not for pleasure.

Washington at a Glance

By JACK STINNETT

MACKINAC ISLAND, Mich.—The Republican Postwar Advisory Council conference just held here probably made greater strides in uniting the party than any move since before the 1940 convention, but with several serious defections.

(1)—Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York walked out in a bit of a huff, not, as nearly as I can find out, because the party ignored his all-out postwar plan for a United Nations military alliance, but because Sen. Robert A. Taft's "home front committee" wouldn't take a more solid stand on several issues. Dewey was a member of the Taft committee and although his opposition views were said to have resulted in some modifications of the original report, the Taft-Dewey breach through which Wendell L. Wilkie walked to the 1940 nomination apparently was as wide as ever.

(2)—Mr. Wilkie, who garnered more popular votes for president than any Republican candidate ever has, wasn't on hand—and if about 95 per cent of the "council of 49" has its way, never will be.

(3)—The explanation from the floor that the two clauses in the adopted Vandenberg report which would commit this nation to a policy that "peace and security (of the world) ought to be ultimately established upon other sanctions than force" and "with organized justice in a free world" is open to the charge that the party has only now caught up with Woodrow Wilson and is merely seeking a revival of the League of Nations and the World Court.

(4)—That the Taft committee's "home front" report is too indefinite, except in its charges against the New Deal, and that in occasional, positive statements, it merely bids for the vote of New Deal groups.

(5)—That by trying to eliminate our postwar foreign policy as a 1944 campaign issue, the party is shirking a responsibility which the opposition will be sure to make capital of.

These alleged defections in the "Mackinac Charter" aren't things dreamed up by this correspondent. They came mostly from off-the-record talks with certain members of the "council of 49" themselves. Some of them came from on-the-record talks.

The foreign policy commitment, for example, doesn't gee at all with declarations publicly made by Dewey, Gov. Raymond T. Baldwin of Connecticut, Gov. Earl Warren of California, and several other members.

This shouldn't be taken as an indication that the Mackinac Island conference failed in its objectives. On the whole, it succeeded better than any "little convention" in the memory of the oldest observers. Almost a whole year before convention time, it has provided the party with a number of dives may be executed.

Mentally Unfit Create Serious Army Problem

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M.D.

A FRIEND of mine who has for many years been a psychologist to the student body of one of our large universities has achieved a sort of official fame in army and navy circles during the last year. For years all the student behavior problems in his university were sent to him for study and possible adjustment. Student behavior problems, of course, range all the way from consistently poor grades and multiple failure in classes on up.

Dr. Clendening will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

My friend has kept very careful and meticulous records and case histories on these students, some of which cover a period in the student's life of three or four years. About a year ago he bundled up about a thousand of them and took them down to Washington and explained to the authorities why these men would be no good to the fighting forces, but only pure trouble, and should be rejected for service.

He was proved right in so many instances that had already been tried out that he was asked to submit his whole list and his recommendations are saving the taxpayers thousands, perhaps millions, of dollars. That ought to rate him a vote of thanks alone when nobody else is even considering saving the taxpayer any money.

Mental Breakdowns in Service

Probably the most serious medical problem of the armed forces today is the extent of mental breakdowns which require care or dismissal. At least numerically it constitutes the largest group and to that extent is the most serious problem.

In July, 1918, General Pershing sent this cablegram from overseas: "Prominence of mental disorders in replacement troops recently received suggests importance of efforts in eliminating mentally unfit prior to departure from the United States."

An intensive effort is being made to prevent the recurrence of this situation this time. Many recruits are refused at the induction center. But we still have to return one out of every 200 soldiers to their homes on account of mental unfitness and the number of nervous and mental cases in our army hospitals is about 3 per 100 cases.

Causes of Disorders

It must be remembered that in ordinary peaceful civil life nine-tenths of the work of the world is done by people of whom little or no responsibility and no heavy or varied mental capacity is required. As long as life goes on in an even tenor they are all right. But let some eruption in their lives occur—a family conflict, financial trouble, going away to school, marriage—and a certain proportion of them go to pieces.

Now fighting in a war is an eruption that makes all others look trivial, so it is no wonder we have a lot of mental casualties. The causes of the breakdowns as found by army medical officers are: Separation from home ties, anxiety over family, change of habit routines, necessity of submission to authority, loss of privacy, loss of prestige, monotony, fear of being a coward.

But in all cases a neurotic personality is at the foundation, and in most cases the conflict can be predicted. That is where my friend's case histories came in so useful.

SUSAN POTTER, whose husband Bill has lately been breaking evening dates to "negotiate" a real estate deal with ALICIA CARTER, a wily, flirtatious widow, Adam, unknowingly, is loved by his secretary.

RUTH MOOREHOUSE, who at present is having difficulty dissuading the affections of

JACK VINTON, a mechanic in the plant, Adam, not being aware of Ruth's feelings, is just becoming intrigued with BRENDA LEIGH who is now enjoying an extended vacation in Linville, which she left several years ago to launch a journalistic career in New York City.

CHAPTER TWELVE
"LISTEN, Dr. Randall," Brenda said, "I didn't come here for a lecture on romance and modern women. I came to have you prescribe a tonic."

"Tonics!" the doctor exploded. "You don't need a tonic." He waved her to silence as she started to speak. "Careers for most women are downright tragic. I'd admire you a lot more, for instance, if I saw you sitting beside a cradle instead of sitting behind a newspaper desk."

"That's a matter of opinion," she flared.

"Certainly. You came here for my opinion, didn't you?"

"No. I came for a diagnosis."

"Diagnoses and opinions are more or less synonymous, my dear young lady."

"And don't call me your dear young lady," she said, getting more and more annoyed. "I am not your dear young lady."

The doctor laughed. "What a shame you aren't! Or at least some man's dear young lady—very dear young lady. As it is, you're just a cog in a business machine, run down, tired out. And so, I repeat, what you need is a generous dose of romance."

"That's absurd."

"Anyway, you ought to interest yourself in a man for sentimental reasons," the doctor went on. "Not just a business associate who talks stocks and bonds, or newspaper editorials—but a man who can make you forget such things, make you think of moonlight, magnolia blooms, mocking birds singing now of Hallie, and then—"

"I thought advice such as that usually came from loveless columns," she said. "As a matter of fact, I've given such advice myself during my newspaper work."

"But never to yourself, I take it."

"No."

"Well, you should have," the doctor said with emphasis. "You should have advised yourself to get away from so much writing about the ways of the world, romantic and otherwise, and live some romance. You should have advised yourself to go some place where you'd meet a lot of attractive men, where you would be wide open to Cupid's darts."

"Well! Of all the silly things! Imagine a reputable physician talking about Cupid's darts—attractive men—romance—"

"I'm sorry you feel that way about it, Miss Leigh," the doctor said finally, shrugging as he did so. "But you asked for it. That's my advice—and it's up to you to take it or leave it."

"And I won't take it," she said. "The idea!"

She had stalked out, her head held high, thinking that it was money thrown away, money that might as well have been tossed into the nearest gutter. But she was terribly in need of a rest, and she wanted to be where it was quiet.

It would be fun, she had told herself, to come to Linville and slip back into her old place among the crowd with whom she had grown up. But things weren't that way.

All her old friends were married; Alene and Carey, Bill and Susan, Ken and Hope Randolph, Morton and Mary. They had homes, and maybe disagreements also, but at least they had each other. And they all treated her as though she were something different, the home-town girl who'd gone away and made good.

They admired her, thought her clothes were "marvelous," and all that—but sometimes they appeared a little awed when they remembered that she had gone places in the newspaper world, had even been mentioned now and then along with the two Dorothys, Parker and Thompson. And she didn't like that attitude a little bit. Even Adam North, although still single, treated her like all the rest, as though she were different, something set apart from the people there in her home town. Of course she had spent a lot of time in New York, and traveling about to many exciting places, while Adam and the others had centered their lives right there in Linville. But still—

She reached Mrs. Platt's front gate and opened it. As she did so, the thought came to her that she was probably the loneliest person in all the world. Not a relative, not a beau—just a fairly successful newspaper career, and a big, empty old house on the outskirts of town.

"Hello, there!" said a masculine voice as she started up the walk.

She turned to see Adam North coming through the gate. "Hello, yourself!" she said.

Adam joined her and took the outstretched hand. "Let's go over there and sit in the pergola for a little while and have a smoke," he said. "It's early, and the others probably haven't come yet. I've been devilishly busy; the factory, and I need to get my mind before I listen to Mrs. Platt talk about the play."

"I could use a little extra wind myself," Brenda smiled. "I've been working devilishly hard also—on the play manuscript." They walked across the lawn that was gradually taking on a winter-time appearance. "I forgot my cigarettes, so you'll have to share yours," she said.

"Gladly," Adam held out his package. Then when their cigarettes were lighted, he said, "Say, this is like the old days, isn't it? Remember when Mrs. Platt used to let us have her lawn for our Sunday school ice cream suppers?"

Brenda nodded. "I'm going to write about things like that," she said. "That's one reason I decided to come home for my rest, instead of going to a resort. There's too much being written that's contemporary. I like stories that have a nostalgic effect—that carry folks back to times when life wasn't so terribly hectic."

Adam looked at her closely. "But that's what you wanted, I thought. Excitement—rushing here and there! If I remember rightly, you laughed at ice cream socials, Sunday school picnics; that is, as you grew older. You thought them dull—wanted to travel and be able to write about far-off, exciting cities and countries." He patted her hand. "Anyway, it's good to have you back home again, even if it is just for a rest. And now that I see what a success you've become, I guess I was wrong."

"What about?" Brenda asked. "About you?"

"Me? How do you mean?"

"Oh, I don't know exactly, only I used to think of you as a girl who'd make a wonderful wife and mother, and decorate a cottage in Linville," said Adam. "I thought you'd be a washout as a career woman, since I had a rather juvenile belief that career women were masculine, hard-boiled, and hated romance and sentiment." He smiled and gazed out across the lawn. "But you're not at all like that—being a career woman with beauty, a career woman who is still darned easy on the eyes."

"How about the sentiment and romance part?" said Brenda.

"I wouldn't know," said Adam. "I suppose you are too busy to bother with such things, but leave them for women like—like—well, like Susan Potter and Hope Randolph. But be that as it may, I do congratulate you, Brenda. You knew what you wanted and you went out after it. I'm always glad to see the home-town gal make good and become a big success!"

"Thanks," Brenda said rather shyly. "But I wonder if I am a success."

"What do you mean?"

"Skip it," said Brenda. Then she remembered what Jack had said about the old Linville custom of "asking Adam," and what the doctor had said about interesting herself in a man for sentimental reasons, one who would make her think of moonlight, magnolia blooms and mocking birds singing now of Hallie. And as she remembered those things, she wondered if a sentimental attachment could help her dissipate that strange feeling of emptiness and dissatisfaction that possessed her now and then. She leaned forward a bit and smiled at Adam. "I'm going to move out to the old Leigh house to stay for the rest of my vacation," she said. "How'd you like to come out and tell me about the ideas you had for remodeling the place?"

"Say, I'd love to do that!" Adam replied eagerly. "Boy, I've got some sketches that'll knock your eye out!"

"Then why not come out Saturday for dinner?" Brenda said. "I'll be settled by then. I'm not much of a cook, but I'll see that you don't leave the table hungry."

"Thanks," said Adam. "That'll be swell!" And then, "Oh, Lord, I forgot. I already have a date for Saturday. It's with Hope Randolph. She's a stockholder in the factory and she's entertaining some important mill people from Richmond."

"I see," said Brenda. "You have to take her husband's place, as usual. Is that it?"

"Yes. Ken forgot about the dinner and made a business appointment out of town."

"Very well," Brenda said, more disappointed than she liked to admit. "It's your problem, not mine. If you want to go on being a tailor's dummy a lot of husbands can use why—"

"I'm not a dummy's tailor!" said Adam. "I mean I'm not a daller's tummy—"

"But you are getting all mixed up," Brenda cut in. She got up. "Come on, let's go inside. There's Susan Potter now, coming in the gate." She hurried across the lawn, calling out, "Hello, Susan!"

Adam followed, slowly and unhappily.

W. S. Paxson To Speak At Meeting of Fayette Co. League of Women Voters

Hon. W. S. Paxson, Representative from Fayette County to the General Assembly of Ohio, will be the guest speaker of the Fayette County League of Women Voters at the home of Mrs. Ralph R. Penn, on Monday afternoon, September 20, at 2:30.

Mrs. H. H. Denton, chairman of the Department of Government and Its Operation, will be in charge of the program, assisted by members of her committee: Mrs. Ralph Penn, Mrs. David Barchet, Mrs. Otis Core, Mrs. R. M. Hughey, Mrs. Frank Jackson, Mrs. Arthur Leland, Mrs. Sam Parrett, Mrs. Jennie Shoop, Mrs. Frank Thatcher and Mrs. David Craig.

This initial meeting for the year will set the stage for further important meetings through which the League of Women Voters—National, State and Local—is making a strong and very definite effort—a call to action—to mobilize for postwar security.

The League of Women Voters realizes that Congress needs public opinion back of it and that public opinion must be enlightened. Public opinion will decide the outcome and indifference now will wreck that outcome.

Monday's meeting will be open to the public and Mr. Paxson will have an important message. Each member of the League of Women Voters is requested to bring at least one guest.

The Conner Farm Woman's Club Met Thursday

At the close of the meeting, the hostesses served tempting refreshments, using a patriotic color scheme throughout. The October meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. T. D. Wilson in Sabina, October twenty-first.

Mrs. Jess Persinger Entertains Bridge Club

Mrs. Jess Persinger entertained the members of her fortnightly luncheon-bridge club, Thursday afternoon and two guests were included, Mrs. Fred Creamer and Mrs. Laura Julian.

The afternoon was spent in playing bridge with Mrs. Colin Campbell and Mrs. Ray Maynard winning high scores.

Blue Lions Ready For Opener

An experienced but spirited Blue Lion football team will open the 1943 season at Gardner Park at 8:15 P. M. Friday (tonight) when Springfield Central Catholic invades the gridiron at Gardner Park.

A good crowd of fans is expected to be on hand for the opener.

Coach Jerry Kissell put on the finishing touches under the lights Thursday night when the boys on the squad came out on the field in their new uniforms bearing the numbers they will carry throughout the season. Lots of enthusiasm has been evidenced at practice throughout the week in spite of the hard work that has been a part of every session.

Particular attention has been given to team play during the practices. Punt formations and the series of plays to be used in the opening game have been rehearsed to give every player the feel of his position.

Lineups have been altered several times in recent days because of two vacancies created this week when Ray Leeth and Charles Walters quit football to accept after-school jobs. The situation was further complicated when Curry was forced to remain on the sidelines due to a knee injury. Curry has been in uniform the past couple of nights and is expected to start at one of the tackle positions.

In spite of all obstacles Coach Kissell refuses to become pessimistic about the chances for his team.

"We may make some mistakes," he said, "but I wouldn't be surprised if our opponents didn't do the same. After all they are probably facing about the same kind of problems that we are forced to cope with."

Beulah Park Gets Set for All-Ohio Race

A full and representative field of 10 juveniles is expected to accept the issue in the first running of "The Ohio's Own" Saturday at Beulah Park.

"The Ohio's Own" is exclusively for Ohio-owned two-year-olds. The distance in this event will be six furlongs and the purse valuation $1000.

Jack Long, who recently arrived at Beulah from Detroit with the horses he trains for the Darby Dan Farm of Columbus, undoubtedly will enter one or two horses in the classic. However, he has not as yet decided upon his choice or choices.

Two-year-olds in the Darby Dan stable at Beulah are: Darby Doris, Darby Dimout, Darby Damron and Darby Delilah.

Trainer Frank Wood is expected to enter Darby Doulton for D. E. Cronin of Grove City while a few horses may be imported from other tracks for this race only.

Other Ohio-owned two-year-olds stabled at Beulah that are regarded as possible entries include:

Self Made and Highland Cora, owned by A. B. Smith of Hilliards.

Bank Bock, owned by W. P. Byerman of Springfield.

Canteen Miss, owned by Witteman and Miller of Grove City.

Cotson, owned by DeFlerville and Metz of Cleveland.

Broadway Flag, owned by Mrs. Mary Guiciardo of Cleveland.

Wise Slave and Happy Indian, owned by The White Star Farm of Delaware.

Roy H. S. and Mr. Danny, owned by R. H. Schwartz of Cleveland.

Rory Dorcas, owned by the Pink Elephant Stable of Columbus.

-Spying- On Sports

By Hugh Fullerton, Jr.

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR. NEW YORK, Sept. 17.—(AP)—Still 18 days to go before the World Series and the Yanks have sold all reserved seats at the Stadium. . . George Krehbiel of the Detroit News became the leading money winner among racing writers recently when his colt, Golden Man, won a $7,500 stakes race at the Detroit Fairgrounds. . . Now, who is the biggest loser? . . . The Los Angeles Angels won the Pacific Coast League pennant and Milwaukee is about to cop the American Association flag, both under the management of men who used to be in the Cubs' organization—which affords good ammunition to scribes who are sniping at the "James Boys," Wilson and Gallagher.

After watching ball players all summer, Dodger Scout Wid Matthews picked Andy Pafo, Cub farmhand at Los Angeles, as the best prospect. Bruiser Kinard, the big football Dodgers lineman, is trying to regain 15 pounds he lost by working out too strenuously. . . When the New York Cubans were scheduled for a baseball game in Norwalk, O., the other night they drove right through town and wound up in Newark, 100 miles away. . . Lester Patrick, who never would consider a player under 17 years old at his Rangers' Hockey "Schools," has invited 15-year-old Ladislav Simkanin of Fort William, Ont., to display his goal-tending skill this year.

(A line on the World Series second basemen to help you line up your own dope on the clubs): Joe Gordon, Yankees: No wonder they call him Flash, he's got the speed and ability to make those impossible stops. In six years with the Yanks he has played in four all-star games and is going into his fifth World Series. His batting average tumbled from his all-time high of .322 last season to a mere .236 now but he has hit 14 homers this season.

Lou Klein, Cardinals: 1943 edition of the Cards' annual Rookie Flash; fast and a long-range hitter. Eye trouble accounted for his .249 average at Columbus last year. Currently hitting .291.

Field Trials For Coon Dogs All Set

More than 150 dogs from at least four states, including Ohio, and twice as many followers of the coon hunting sport were expected to turn out Sunday for the second field trials to be held on the Johnson and Kile farms, just north of Buena Vista, under the sponsorship of the Fayette County Coon Hunters' Association, a member of the committee in charge said as the final touches were being put on the arrangements.

The association, formed less than a year ago for the primary purpose of keeping up the stock of raccoons in Fayette County, put on its first field trials about two months ago. The gathering at that event was admittedly "far greater than had been anticipated" and, it was pointed out, included women and children of the families of the men who find relaxation and recreation in "running" their dogs at night after the day's work is done.

A total of $250 in cash awards has been hung up for the fanciers of coon dogs to chase in lieu of the real live game. But, ribbons and honors, they say, is more highly prized than money.

The association plans to loose as many raccoons as their fund will buy from the state propagation farms at the end of the season early next spring. None of the committee would estimate how much was expected to be taken in in the form of entry fees from Sunday's event to add to the fund. Full grown raccoons will be bought for release here, it was said.

The field trials, one committee member explained, combined both sport and recreation for the entire family. A lunch and soft drink stand is to be set up to give the event a picnic atmosphere.

The first cast of dogs is scheduled for 11 A. M. and the finish in the woods along Rattlesnake Creek at the bridge just north of the village on the highway is expected to come about dusk.

Ohio Football Set for Start

COLUMBUS, Sept. 17.—(AP)—Two college contests—and so many high school games no one can count 'em—launch Ohio's 1943 football campaign this week end, with the majority of the scholastic contests scheduled tonight.

Baldwin Wallace put the opening wedge under the football lid a week ago, absorbing a 14 to 6 defeat at the hands of Rochester, but this weekend's action is the first for the more than 500 high school squads.

The college contests, Saturday afternoon, send Ohio Wesleyan against Bowling Green in a V-12 unit fray, and Miami's Redskins against Indiana's Hoosiers of the Western Conference.

43 ON LION CUB SQUAD PRACTICING DAILY FOR GAMES TO BE PLAYED

The Blue Lion Cubs of the Washington C. H. junior high school are getting ready to roar. Practices are being held every evening at Wilson field under Clyde Cramer.

In response to the call for boys for the junior squad, 50 reported for the first meeting and after the first practice 43 were left on the team.

The boys are learning the fundamentals of the game, being taught to block, tackle and carry the ball.

There will probably be some games played this season with a team from Clarksburg and may be one from Wilmington, because of wartime conditions this year.

The members of the team are: D. Shiedler, Bellar, Adams, Brandon, Coble, Freeman, Dee Foster, Steward, Durban, Braddock, Campbell, Pyle, Johnson, Looker, Andrews, Enochs, Denton, Bryan, Kelly, J. Sagar, G. Sagar, Carl Orr, Bowers, Sanderson, Garver, VanMeter, Allemang, Lowe, Rose, Grimm, C. Orr, Self, F. Wyatt, Craig, Knapp, Reser, Howe, Dawson, Thomas, Smith, C. Wyatt, Rockhold, Nick Christman.

The boys are eager and willing to learn football and are putting a lot of energy into their practices.

Old Timers' Reunion Set For Sabina

The weekly double feature planned for Recreation Park at Sabina for next Sunday combines the annual reunion of the "old timers" of baseball on the field of play and a game between the regular Sabina team and the Holsom Red Birds, the champions of the Clarke County League, who won their last game from the Springfield Coca Colas by a shut-out.

The festivities are scheduled to open at 1:30 P. M. with the Sabina Bees and the Old Timers getting together for the first game of the double bill. Among the Old Timers invited to play by Tobe Wical, the boss of the Sabina ball team, are several from Washington C. H. and they include Bill Denehy, Din Denehy, Dale Adams, Paddy Davis, Cap Schramm, Spud Porter, Carl Noon, Daddy Doyle, Jonah Wical, Charley Rannels, Hop Wilson, Tom Conner, Willis Heironemus, Hig Corvin, Mose McCall and John Vanhook.

The Sabina boys, who last week lost the "rub" game to the Dayton Waldorfs, one of the top notch colored outfits of this section, will use virtually the same lineup against the Holsom crew Sunday.

Twenty-two million pieces of mail now are shipped each week to soldiers and sailors of U. S. overseas forces.

NEW YORK, Sept. 17.—(AP)—Babe Ruth, the "Sultan of Swat," may go to North Africa to give our soldiers in camp a couple of baseball's glamour boy in the golden 1920's.

This disclosure came today from a usually reliable source. Ruth, whose 60 homers in 1927 still stands as a major league record, was not available for comment, but it is understood that the War Department has already approached him regarding the tour.

The War Department announced recently that two All-Star major league teams would be sent to the Pacific theater to play a series for the benefit of American troops.

GRAIN MARKET NEWS SUMMARY

CHICAGO, Sept. 17.—AP—Grains were unable to make much headway today, although they rallied somewhat in late trade.

Some oats buying, believed to have been cash interests, pushed the December future to a new seasonal high again shortly after the opening. But then some grains hit profit-taking and a general reaction and moved off fractionally. A weaker tone in cash oats, and a weaker wheat futures market at Winnipeg most of the session, also were depressing influences.

Wheat closed at or near the day's best prices and was 1/4 to 1/2 higher, September $1.48 1/2, December $1.48 1/2, 1/2. Oats were unchanged to 1/4 lower, September 77 1/2, and rye was 1/4 lower to 1/2 higher, September $1.05 1/2.

WHS TAKES OVER TOWN AT RALLY THURSDAY NIGHT

Band Snake Dance at Gardner Park Climax of Day's Activities

Competing for the spotlight at the giant snake-dance and football rally at Gardner Park Thursday night, which climaxed the day's activities at WHS, were the previews of the Washington High School band's formations for this year and a genteel hazing of freshmen.

The band and snake dancers stopped traffic when they marched down Court Street at 7:45. The caravan began at the North North Street entrance of the high school building and wound down North Street, through Court and down Main to Gardner Park.

Election of class officers, the first pep meeting of the year and photographing all students and faculty members were also held Wednesday at the high school.

Dressed in dungarees and slacks instead of the regular uniforms, the band high-stepped through some tricky formations calculated to open the eyes of Springfield Central fans as well as the cheering sections here at the football opener tonight.

Playing the Air Corps song, the Marine Hymn, "Anchors Aweigh," and "When the Caissons Go Rolling Along," the band worked into three airplanes and three anchors, winding up the display with a U.S.A. for the outstanding formation of the evening.

After the band's performance, an effigy representing the Springfield team which had been hanged from the goalposts at the southeast end of the field, was burned in a bonfire cheering session.

The traditional hazing of freshmen at the park this year was more or less confined to generous smearing of lipstick on all freshmen's faces. Not many escaped and when some "freshies" ran from upperclassmen, their only penalty was a double dose of make-up.

Class officers were elected Wednesday afternoon, following primary elections held in the morning in each home room. Final results show the following students leaders in their classes:

FRESHMEN — president, Dick Willis; vice-president, John Sagar; secretary, Bob Williams; treasurer, Bill Hughes.

EIGHTH GRADE — president, Leona Tillet; vice-president, Jean Spencer; secretary, Martha Ann Engle; treasurer, Jean Howard.

SEVENTH GRADE — president, Bob Craig; vice-president, Peggy Norris; secretary, Marie Riber and treasurer, Carolyn Lou Bidwell.

Members of the Blue Lion squad were introduced to the student body at a pep-meeting held Wednesday morning in the high school auditorium when cheer-leaders Carol McCoy, Ruth Ann Perrill and Helen McCoy led the yelling for the first time this year.

Pictures of the faculty and student body were taken Wednesday afternoon. These pictures are those which will be published in the 1944 Sunburst.

WAR BOND SALES IN COUNTY NOW TOTAL $234,585

Financial 'Beach Head' Is Held But Drive Still Has $773,414 To Go

Fayette County has seized a $234,585.50 financial "beach head" in the Third War Loan invasion drive. This is the amount of War Bonds purchased by Fayette Countians during the first nine days of the campaign. The county must push on to $1,018,000 by September 30 to meet its quota—of which $773,414.50 remains.

Ernie Pyle, war correspondent who is now at his home in Arizona for a few weeks respite before he tackles a South Pacific assignment, wired the following dispatch to the United States from Sicily:

"One recent sunny afternoon I sat on a Sicilian slope and watched our artillery turn the German-held hillside across the valley into an insufferable geysering of dirt, rock, smoke, explosions and flame.

"Our own troops lay waiting until this appalling barrage finally forbade human tenacity. We had plenty of shells and we threw them in masses until the enemy hill was a pitiful thing.

"In the midst of it the commanding colonel walked up and sort of grinning, said: 'We're letting the taxpayers back home take that hill this afternoon.'

"It is no vain theory that more money and more work at home result, at this end, in lives saved and victories won. Over here we see it in actual practice. The long, disheartening gap between effort and achievement had been bridged and we see materializing here before our eyes the much preached slogan that American production can overwhelm our enemies.

"It takes money and terrific work to avalanche all this might of material to our fronts here so far away. Yet how easy money is; and how easy even the hardest toil compared to the ceaseless agony of the men at the front. The bond you buy has by now become a direct thing which actually does save some American's life. And just as real and direct is the extra toll you put into every manufacture of every kind.

"Thanks to you at home, we no longer must chant our bitter refrain of too little and too late here in the far places. We're getting the stuff, and fighting spirit is high. But the end is not yet, and millions may still bleed before it is all over.

"If you could see just one man die on the battlefield, you would know how right it is to let the taxpayers take every hill possible. Believe it from us over here, we call to you and we know how true it is—more Bonds and sweat at home mean less blood and tears for us all. You must buy to save those you love and buy and buy again."

CARLOAD OF TIN CANS WILL BE LOADED HERE

High School Students and Lions To Do Work in Two Days

A carload of prepared tin cans will be loaded here Saturday and Sunday, under plans announced Friday, when volunteers from the High School will work Saturday afternoon, starting at 1:30 P. M. and the Lions Club will take over at 1:30 P. M. Sunday and finish the work.

Maynard Craig, in charge of salvage activities in the county, completed arrangements this week for loading the car, and it will be shipped immediately to the detinning plant where the tin will be salvaged and the sheet iron in the cans also saved.

Not only are the High School students to help in the work, as volunteers, but any other persons who desire to help can do so.

What remains to be done after the High School students work Saturday afternoon, will be completed by the Lions Club members Sunday afternoon, starting at 1:30 o'clock.

The tin cans are now piled up at the Becker plant on S. Main St., and the work of loading will be adjacent to the Pennsylvania Railroad freight station.

Work of collecting the cans in the county has been under way for months.

In addition to his widow and six children he is survived by six brothers and two sisters.

Investigation disclosed that Anderson started out Wednesday morning to pick corn. When he failed to return, Mrs. Anderson and Floyd Richardson, a neighbor, started a search and found his body along a creek.

Anderson had removed his shirt, soaked it in the creek, tied a sleeve to a locust tree branch and the other end about his neck, then sat down, causing strangulation.

INJURIES ARE FATAL TO S. SOLON BOY

Ray Dowler Dies After Fall From Tractor

Funeral services for Ray Dowler, six year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Elvin Dowler, will be held Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock in the Christian Union Church at South Solon.

Ray died Wednesday evening after injuries received when he fell from a moving tractor into the path of a wagon load of corn which was being pulled by the tractor, it is believed. The tractor was driven by the boy's uncle, Richard Dowler, and it is thought that Ray fell off the back of the tractor before the wagon and the wheels ran over his body.

He died in Springfield City Hospital about four hours after the accident happened. Ray had been a student in the first grade of the South Charleston school.

He is survived by one brother, Paul, his parents and grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Dowler. The family lives on the Will Hackett farm about three miles north of South Solon.

Burial will be made in South Solon cemetery.
